Preface

The manual consists of listening tasks accompanied by authentic videos. Each task includes clear instructions how to do it correctly. The typical task types include: multiple choice, true/false, matching and gap filling, translation and discussion. Some tips how to do different types of tasks:

TRUE/FALSE

In this type of task, you need to decide if the given statements convey the same information as used in the text (and mark them True) or different (and mark them False).

- Remember that your task is to decide if a statement is true or false in reference to the text, not if it is true in general;
- remember that the questions follow the order of the information in the text;
- many true or false statements are built in such a way that the information from the text is conveyed by means of synonyms or antonyms.

MULTIPLE CHOICE

In a multiple choice task you need to rule out the incorrect answers and choose one answer that is correct. The correct answer should contain the same information as the video.

- Before you start watching the video, first read all the questions and then find in the video the parts that correspond to each question – it can be a single word, a sentence or a paragraph;
- remember that the questions follow the order of the information in the video. It is safe to assume that the answer to question number two will be somewhere before the answer to question number three. This might help you if you are not sure where to look for the answer to a particular question;
- never choose the answer on the basis of one word, as both the correct and incorrect answers may contain the same words used in the video. Pay attention to the general context of the story, which will help you rule out the answers which are not consistent with it;

- when choosing the correct answer, always double check if the information in the questions is the same as what is in the text. You may want to underline the parts of the episode that contain the answer you need, which will help you finish the task more quickly;
- it is important for you to be able to locate the main idea of the story and separate it from ideas which are only details or illustration of the main idea. This will help you answer the questions correctly as a lot of wrong options in the exam questions ask about ideas of secondary importance.

GAPPED TEXT (MATCHING)

This is a special type of matching task in which you have a text with some parts (full sentences or parts of sentences) missing from it. As with all the other types of reading tasks, before you start doing the task, read the text ignoring the gaps to get the overall idea of what it is about.

- When completing the gaps, look for words which are used to refer to sentences that come before or after the gaps. Pay attention to:
 - * cause and effect markers: if a sentence talks about an action, then the next one will most probably talk about its effect;
 - * pronouns and determiners: if they are used in the sentences, they refer to the people or things that are already mentioned in the text;
 - * chronology markers: look for words like afterwards, eventually, finally which show the order of events;
 - * vocabulary paraphrases: neighbouring sentences often refer to the same person, thing or concept but use different words or phrases to describe them.

GAP FILLING

In this type of task, you will get a set of gapped sentences, a form, or a fact file with some information missing. Your task will be to complete the gaps using the information you find in the text. The sentences you need to complete are only paraphrases of what you read in the text – they convey the same information, but they are not phrased in the same way.

- Sometimes the instructions specify the number of words you can write, so make sure your answers are the right length. If the instructions say you have to write one or two words, your solution of three words will not be accepted, although otherwise it may be correct;
- read the gapped sentences carefully before you start doing the task and try to guess what word category is missing from each gap. If you do this, it will be easier for you to find the correct answers;
- the sentences you have to complete are given in the same order as the information in the text. Bear this in mind when you work through the task.

That Holiday Feeling lyrics by Steve Lawrence and Eydie Gorme

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=akIVhzTlli4&ab_channel=BobBarry

to snow	to nip	to desire	to need to be so lovely	to begin	to never miss	to mistletoe

Look how the snow is snowing

Your eyes are soft and glowing

Jack Frost is nipping at our feet

I'll bet your lips are warm and sweet

We've got that holiday feeling

That happy holiday feeling

Let's roast chestnuts by the fire

Any little thing you desire

Those reindeer soon will be here

Won't mean a thing to me dear

When Santa Claus begins his flight

I hope he gets a flat tonight

We've got that holiday feeling

That happy holiday feeling

Our favorite holiday of the year

You'd better leave

it's been so lovely like this

A chance I'd never miss

But it's so late

On New Years Eve
At 12 o'clock we'll stop to kiss
And while the whole world will be whistle-blowing
We will still be mistletoeing
You think you're such a smarty
C'mon let's have a party
I know what's running through your mind
This is the season to be kind
We've got that holiday feeling
That happy holiday feeling
So come and snuggle close to me
Right here where you're supposed to be
Let's kiss cause it's the season dear
Let's kiss whoneeds a reason dear
We've got that holiday feeling now

sleigh	dressed up	chestnuts	on his way
bright	reindeer	Merry Christmas	many ways

Chestnuts roasting on an open fire
Jack Frost nipping at your nose
Yuletide carols being sung by a choir
And folks dressed up like Eskimos
Everybody knows a turkey and some mistletoe, mh-mh
Helps to make the seasons bright
Tiny tots with their eyes all aglow
Will find it hard to sleep tonight
They know that Santa's on his way
He's loaded lots of toys and goodies for his sleigh
And every mother's child is gonna try
To see if reindeer really know how to fly
And so I'm offering this simple phrase
To kids from one to 92
Although it's been said many times, many ways
Merry Christmas to you
Da-da, da-da-da-da-da-da
Da-da, da-da-da-da-da
Ooh-ah-oh
Ahh
And so I'm offering a simple phrase

FILM REVIEW SAMPLE

How to write a film review

Title: The simplest solution is to take the title of the film. Puns and allusions are more sophisticated and entertaining.

Introduction: You can start off with information about the film (e.g. financial aspects, awards, reviews) and/or the director (e.g. awards, former movies). Also quotes and/or anecdotes may catch the reader's attention. You can also describe what you expected from the film.

Main part: Provide a brief summary of the plot. Make sure that your summary makes sense to a reader who does not know the movie. Do not refer to specific scenes. Is the plot interesting, believable or rather predictable?

Present the main actors and their characters and say something about their performance. If you like you may give reasons why you identify with a certain character. Are the actors believable and sympathetic?

State your opinion of the movie and give reasons for it. What are its strengths and weaknesses? Support your opinion with specific scenes. Is the soundtrack appropriate?

You can relate the film to other well-known examples of its genre (thriller, comedy, drama etc.) and/or theme. What is unique about your film? Does it have a specific message? If so, do you agree with this message? In which respect is your film superior/inferior?

You can place the film in its cultural context and/or describe/speculate on the director's intention and message.

Conclusion: Either recommend the film or advise against seeing it. Is this only a film for teenagers, women, young men? Take care that your final judgement is logically developed from what you have written before.

Task:

Pick a film that you liked a lot or that you disliked completely. Write a film review for a teenage magazine in about 180 words.
